The cases are jointly administered before the Honorable Paul W. Bonapfel under Case No. 20-61065, in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Georgia, Atlanta Division (the "Court"). On March 17, 2020, the Court entered an order (Dkt. No. 283) (the "Bar Date Order")¹ establishing certain dates by which parties holding prepetition claims against the Debtors must file proofs of claim ("Proofs of Claim").

The Claims Bar Date. Pursuant to the Bar Date Order, all entities, including individuals, partnerships, estates, and trusts who have a claim or potential claim against the Debtors, that arose prior to the Petition Date, no matter how remote or contingent such right to payment or equitable remedy may be, MUST FILE A PROOF OF CLAIM on or before May 19, 2020 at 5:00 p.m., prevailing Eastern Time (the "Claims Bar Date").

Governmental Bar Date. Governmental entities who have a claim or potential claim against the Debtors that arose prior to the Petition Date, no matter how remote or contingent such right to payment or equitable remedy may be, MUST FILE A PROOF OF CLAIM on or before July 20, 2020 at 5:00 p.m., prevailing Eastern Time (the "Governmental Bar Date").

Security Incident. During the fall of 2019, the Debtors identified suspicious cyber-related activity in their environment and the presence of malware on certain point of sale terminals associated with one of their payment processing systems. This malware was designed to copy payment card information from cards swiped on infected point of sale terminals. Based on the Debtors' investigation, the unauthorized access to payment card information for the impacted payment processing system generally occurred from July 2, 2019 through September 27, 2019, with some stores impacted over a shorter timeframe. Additional information pertaining to the security incident can be found at <https://krystal.com/security/>. All individuals holding a claim or potential claim arising from the security incident MUST FILE A PROOF OF CLAIM on or before the Claims Bar Date.

ANY PERSON OR ENTITY WHO FAILS TO FILE A PROOF OF CLAIM WITH THE COURT, IN EACH CASE ON OR BEFORE THE BAR DATE, SHALL NOT BE TREATED AS A CREDITOR WITH RESPECT TO SUCH CLAIM FOR THE PURPOSES OF VOTING AND DISTRIBUTION ON ANY CHAPTER 11 PLAN AND ANY PERSON WHO FAILS TO FILE A PROOF OF CLAIM WILL HAVE THEIR CLAIM BARRED FOR ALL PURPOSES IN THE CASES.

To the extent more than one Debtor is listed on the proof of claim, a proof of claim is treated as if filed only against the first-listed Debtor, or if a proof of claim is otherwise filed without identifying a specific Debtor, the proof of claim may be deemed as filed only against The Krystal Company.

The Sale Objection Deadline and Sale Hearing. On March 4, 2020, the Court entered an order (Docket No. 227), which, among other things, authorized the Debtors to solicit bids and approved bidding procedures to be employed by the Debtors in connection with the sale of all or substantially all of the Debtors' assets (the "Sale"). State rejects change to high school senior grading policy

khui@newsobserver.com

North Carolina high school seniors will not have the option to choose regular grades this semester instead of only pass or withdrawal grades.

The State Board of Education voted 8-3 on Thursday to stand by its March decision, amid the coronavirus pandemic, to only give seniors a “PC19” or “WC19” grade for the spring semester that won’t be counted in their grade-point-average. Most board members said it was too late to change, especially considering how some seniors have already graduated.

us to stay the course and move on with this,” said state board member J. Wendell Hall. “It’s hard, it’s hard. But it’s a decision that has to be made.”

But dissenting board members said seniors deserve the option to choose a regular grade to try to improve their GPA. Seniors who had taken Advanced Placement, International Baccalaureate and Honors courses this spring to boost their GPA will lose that advantage.

“These students have gone above and beyond what’s expected and they just want to see that on a simple piece of paper,” said state board member Amy White. “The cohort of students who deserve this choice are the very ones who know that hard work matters. They know that recognition matters.”

SENIORS LOBBIED FOR GRADING CHANGE

The vote came after seniors and their parents sent many emails asking state board members to reconsider their March decision. They wanted the same option being given to students in grades 9-11 to choose regular grades or the pass/withdrawal grades.

Yvonne Honza, whose daughter is a senior at Perquimans County High School, expressed disappointment Thursday and said she’s considering seeking legal action. She said awards that high schools give won’t be an accurate representation since they’ll only be based on how seniors were doing through the fall semester.

“Who’s to say my daughter, or any other student, wouldn’t have earned a high enough GPA to earn certain honors after their spring semester classes were calculated?” Honza said in an email Thursday.

Seniors will get a passing grade for a course if they were passing as of March 13 — the last day before schools were closed to try to slow the spread of COVID-19, the disease caused by the coronavirus.

Deputy Superintendent David Stegall said the grading policy was recommended to help ease the anxiety of seniors worried about graduating.

Education officials said seniors who’ve graduated, such as those at early colleges or who left to join the military, would be disenfranchised by a policy change. White asked about letting those graduates change their grades, but she was told it would be hard reaching some of them now.

BOARD MEMBERS SAY TOO LATE TO CHANGE DECISION

“Six weeks ago we made the best decision we could on March 27 based on the situation at that time,” said state board member Jill Camnitz. “Seniors across the state then made their own individual choices to continue instruction or not depending on their circumstances.”

“To change the rules right now would be unfair to many who made their decision based on the policy we approved and they would have no way to revisit their decision or to get those six weeks back.”

But Lt. Gov. Dan Forest said not counting the spring semester grades in the GPA will hurt seniors who want to raise their class rank, get a scholarship or go to college out of state.

“This to me is a no-brainer as it does nothing to hurt a student but can definitely make all the difference in an already hectic end of high school careers for those students who want the grade they earned,” Forest said in a statement read by White at the board meeting.

Forest is a state board member but cited scheduling conflicts for not attending Thursday. Forest, a Republican, is running this fall against Democratic Gov. Roy Cooper.

Three board members appointed by former Republican Gov. Pat McCrory voted for the change, while seven members appointed by Cooper voted to stand by the March decision.

WHAT SAFETY STEPS WILL STORES NEED TO TAKE?

Businesses can operate at 50% capacity instead of the current 20% capacity. Social distancing of 6 feet between people and cleaning measures are required.

CAN I GO TO RESTAURANTS AND BARS?

Only for take-out and curbside pickup. Dining rooms remain closed until Phase 2 can begin, which could be as soon as May 22.

WHAT ABOUT WORSHIP SERVICES?

Worship services of more than 10 people are allowed only if held outside and social distancing is followed.

DO I NEED TO WEAR A MASK?

You are not required to wear a mask, but it is strongly recommended, as masks help reduce the spread of COVID-19, the disease caused by the new coronavirus. Health officials suggest wearing a cloth face covering, which can be made at home. Some retail stores have required shoppers to wear masks, such as The Fresh Market and Costco.

HOW MANY PEOPLE CAN GET TOGETHER?

Gatherings of 10 or less are allowed, outside. No big graduation or other events allowed.

WHAT CAN I EXPECT AT COUNTY PARKS?

Parks and their parking lots are open, but visitors should practice social distancing and avoid groups larger than 10. Masks are recommended when out in public, especially where social distancing can’t be followed, parks officials said.

Group sports are not allowed, and people may find it’s “self-service” only when they visit a boat ramp or other park amenity, with no staff. While tennis courts and golf courses remain open, playgrounds and restrooms are still closed.

The U.S. National Whitewater Center is restarting some activities, such as mountain biking, stand-up paddle boarding and kayaking. Its outdoor gear store will also open, as well as the trail and kayak centers, and food and beverages will be available to-go.

ARE HAIR SALONS AND BARBERSHOPS OPEN?

Not yet. Businesses like hair and nail salons are included in reopenings in Phase 2, with reduced capacity and special social distancing measures. Phase 2 won’t start until a minimum of two weeks after Phase 1.

WILL MY KIDS HAVE TO GO BACK TO SCHOOL?

No. All N.C. public schools will reopen Aug. 17, adding five days to the school year as part of a COVID-19 response plan signed by Cooper.

CAN I TAKE MY KID TO DAYCARE?

Childcare centers that follow strict cleaning requirements can open during Phase 1 for working parents or for those parents who are looking for work. Prior to Phase 1, childcare centers have only been open for parents who are essential workers.

ARE GYMS OPEN?

No. Gyms can open on a limited basis under Phase 2.

CAN I LOOK AT HOUSES FOR SALE OR SELL MY HOUSE?

You can conduct real estate transactions so long as other guidelines are followed, such as limits on gatherings of more than 10 people. That means some open houses may not be possible, but you could set up a private showing.

ARE VAPING AND TOBACCO STORES OPEN?

They can reopen in Phase 1.

ARE MOVIE THEATERS AND ENTERTAINMENT VENUES OPEN?

No. Event venues can reopen at limited capacity in Phase 2. However, Blumenthal Performing Arts has suspended all public shows and events through July 7 at its venues: Belk Theater, Booth Playhouse and Stage Door Theater at Blumenthal Performing Arts Center; McGlohon Theater and Duke Energy Theater at Spirit Square; and Knight Theater.

ARE MAJOR SPORTS VENUES OPEN?

Venues can reopen at limited capacity in Phase 2.

Charlotte Motor Speedway’s NASCAR Coca-Cola 600 scheduled for May 24 will take place without spectators and be broadcast on FOX at 6 p.m. The May 23 Alcoso 300 NASCAR Xfinity Series Race has been postponed to May 25 and will take place without spectators. It will be broadcast live on FS1 at 7:30 p.m. and on PRN affiliate radio networks. Check the website for other race changes.

CAN I VISIT RELATIVES IN A NURSING HOME OR JAIL?

Unlikely. To prevent the spread of COVID-19, North Carolina Department of Health and Human Services recommends all facilities that serve as residences for people at high-risk not allow visitors unless it is an end-of-life visit.

WILL OFFICES OPEN?

The state is still continuing to encourage remote work when possible, but more businesses are allowed to open under Phase 1. Many Charlotte-area companies are continuing their work-from-home policies. Mecklenburg County officials said workplaces must follow rules similar to retail requirements — keeping employees 6 or more feet apart, disinfecting high-touch areas and encouraging workers to wear masks, if appropriate.

IS THE DMV OPEN?

Yes, but you may be able to do your business online. Cooper also has extended the expiration date on more than two dozen DMV credentials, waiving penalties for a late registration renewal in March or April. The five-month extension applies to any credential that expires on or after March 1, and before Aug. 1.

TESTS

navirus benchmarks, including the percentage of positive test results, hospitalizations and deaths.

The first tier, or priority group, has already been eligible for coronavirus testing. Harris said this segment includes individuals with moderate to severe coronavirus symptoms, as well as those who are ages 65 and older with underlying health conditions. The group also incorporates health care workers in nursing homes and long-term care facilities, first responders, and people who may have been exposed to the virus based on contact tracing investigations.

Harris said testing will encompass the second priority group within the next two weeks. That covers adults and children with mild COVID-19 symptoms, and those with a medium to high risk of exposure to the coronavirus.

The third priority group will have access to testing within two weeks of North Carolina entering Phase 2 of Cooper’s reopening plan, which could begin as early as May 22. Harris said individuals who “support critical infrastructure” could be eligible for testing, as well as those who are asymptomatic.

“The logistics of the plan are still being worked out,” Harris said.

But the health director says she’s relying on a combination of “high-volume,” and “low-volume” providers to make the strategy effective. Beyond Atrium Health and Novant Health, that also means enlisting testing capacity from community health clinics and private providers, Harris said.

The greater Charlotte area is not expected to reach its coronavirus “peak” until mid-July, when a possible surge in cases could overwhelm hospital resources, officials said. The later date, originally projected to be sometime between mid-April and mid-May, is a result of Mecklenburg residents successfully “flattening the curve” — effectively, spreading infections over a longer time period.

In the last 14 days, Harris said, hospitalizations have decreased in the region’s acute care facilities and fewer patients are requiring ventilators.

“There’s still significant capacity in the hospitals at this point,” Harris said. “I don’t think we’re going to be in a position where 100% of our beds are filled and it sneaks up on us.”

FROM 3 TO 700+ DAILY TESTS

As the coronavirus outbreak began in North Carolina in March, the state Department of Health and Human Services put forth strict testing criteria, reflecting severely limited supplies of test kits and personal protective equipment for health care workers.

Initially, testing was only available to people who had a fever or lower respiratory symptoms — and who had traveled to a location of a known outbreak or come into close contact with someone already infected with COVID-19. Once those criteria were met, people needed to first test negative for the flu before becoming eligible for a coronavirus test.

In the last two months, the testing landscape has changed dramatically.

In a startling acknowledgment of scarce resources, Harris revealed on March 13 that Mecklenburg was receiving three test kits from the state. At the time, there were 15 confirmed cases statewide, with just one in Mecklenburg.

“We’re doing the best we can ...,” Harris had told reporters. “We really do not have the information we need to say what the total extent of the issue is in Mecklenburg County right now.”

In late March, state health officials said people with only mild COVID-19 symptoms should stay home and skip testing in an effort to stop the virus’ spread and conserve limited supplies.

Limits on testing mean the numbers of COVID-19 cases reported by the county “only represent a fraction of the true burden of COVID-19 in our community,” the public health department has said.

Harris has repeatedly said Mecklenburg adheres to a “judicious” testing approach, emphasizing the county lacks the capacity to pursue widespread coronavirus screening.

But in recent weeks, Harris has also guaranteed that all residents who need to be tested — particularly, those with severe symptoms and most at risk for contracting COVID-19 — would be tested.

Both private labs, such as the North Carolina-based LabCorp, and hospital labs have ramped up testing capacity.

As testing expanded in mid-April, Atrium Health and Novant Health launched mobile testing sites to reach minority communities in Charlotte. Some elected officials have intensely criticized early decisions on testing site locations, saying some of the most vulnerable neighborhoods were initially neglected even as data showed black residents were disproportionately impacted by the virus.

Public health officials say increased testing is crucial to reopening businesses and loosening social distancing restrictions. The state aims to administer between 5,000 and 7,000 tests daily.

The cases are jointly administered before the Honorable Paul W. Bonaparte under Case No. 20-61065, in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Georgia, Atlanta Division (the "Court"). On March 17, 2020, the Court entered an order [Dkt. Security Incident. During the fall of 2019, the Debtors identified suspicious cyber-related activity in their environment and the presence of malware on certain point of sale terminals associated with one of their payment processing systems. This malware was designed to copy payment card information from cards swiped on infected point of sale terminals. Based on the Debtors' investigation, the unauthorized access to payment card information for the impacted payment processing system generally occurred from July 2, 2019 through September 27, 2019, with some stores impacted over a shorter timeframe. Former Goldman Banker Takes on Climate Change

By SCOTT PATTERSON

When he managed billions of dollars for Goldman Sachs Group Inc., Robert Litterman used sophisticated mathematical models to control risk. Now he is advising the government, and he believes it isn't doing enough to avoid serious losses, including taking drastic steps to deal with the coronavirus pandemic.

The coronavirus crisis shows the cost of failing to properly assess risks. "It's a perfect example of when you have a risk-management problem—it's urgent, you don't know how much time you have," Mr. Litterman said. "With coronavirus, we wasted so many weeks."

Mr. Litterman, 68 years old, left Goldman a decade ago and now chairs a group working on the risks of climate change for the Commodity Futures Trading Commission. While he doesn't invest for Goldman anymore, he is betting his personal cash that the world will more rapidly address the risks. "We've got to slam on the brakes" on carbon emissions, he said. "It's way past time."

In March, he testified before a congressional committee looking into the economic impact of global warming. Mr. Litterman told Congress that his analysis of the issue, partly based on models he used to manage risk in financial markets, shows failure to act quickly could result in a "tragic and potentially catastrophic mistake." The way to offset that risk, he says, is to rapidly decrease emissions of carbon dioxide, a key greenhouse gas.

Rostin Behnam, the CFTC commissioner who launched the climate-change group, said he chose Mr. Litterman to lead the effort because of his "gravitas on financial markets" and experience in the economics of global warming.

One way to curb fossil-fuel emissions, Mr. Litterman says, is through a carbon-tax proposal named after two former Republican secretaries of state, James Baker and George Shultz. The Baker-Shultz plan envisions a $40 per ton tax that would increase every year by roughly 5%. Money collected would be returned to U.S. citizens at a rate of $500 per person a year. A goal of the tax—which Mr. Litterman thinks might be too low—is to affect incentives for consumers, business owners and investors, possibly changing their behavior. A higher price for gasoline could prompt people to drive less, and they might purchase an electric car instead of an SUV. Businesses might switch to solar- or wind-generated electricity.

Incentives granted the fossil-fuel industry today, such as state-sponsored subsidies, are wrongheaded, Mr. Litterman said. He concedes that the current economic downturn likely makes a tax on fossil fuels politically unpalatable. President Trump has long played down the risk of global warming. His administration has rolled back rules to curb carbon emissions, such as restrictions on coal-fired power plants.

Mr. Litterman is putting his money where his mouth is. After leaving Goldman, he helped found a New York trading firm, Kepos Capital, that is planning a fund that will invest in assets related to a rapid transition to a low-carbon economy.

In his personal account, Mr. Litterman says he owns a derivative constituting a bet that one basket of stocks—coal, tar sands and oil companies—will underperform the broader market. He says the stranded-asset total return swap has gained about 13% this year as oil prices slumped world-wide. So-called stranded assets are fossil fuels Losses widened to $4.5 billion for the three months ended March 31, more than double from a year ago.

Virus Puts Postal Service in Deeper Hole

By PAUL ZIOBRO AND NATALIE ANDREWS

A boost in package deliveries won't be enough to offset the steep decline in mail, U.S. Postal Service officials said Friday, as they made another plea for federal funding in the face of $22 billion in projected losses due to the coronavirus pandemic.

The Postal Service is petitioning Congress for up to $75 billion in funding to offset losses, modernize operations and for additional borrowing capacity. The agency received a $10 billion Treasury loan in the first coronavirus stimulus bill. President Trump has said he wouldn't authorize the loan unless the Postal Service raises the rates it charges to deliver packages for customers like Amazon.com Inc.

The pandemic has caused a jump in online shopping that is boosting the Postal Service's package business. But mail, which is the agency's more profitable segment, has suffered significant declines, and officials project that volume will fall more than 50% over the next few months, according to people familiar with the matter.

"The stark reality is that the pandemic will cause meaningful near-term and long-term implications from the steep decline in revenue we will suffer this year and in the coming years that endanger our ability to fulfill our universal service mission absent congressional intervention," said Megan Brennan, the outgoing postmaster general, on Friday during a meeting of the agency's governing board.

Providing emergency aid to the Postal Service is a priority for House Speaker Nancy Pelosi (D., Calif.) in the next round of coronavirus legislation, and the agency also has bipartisan support in the Senate. Still, aid for the Postal Service faces resistance from some GOP lawmakers, including Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell (R., Ky.).

The impact of the pandemic wasn't fully reflected in the Postal Services' latest quarterly report, which showed revenue up 2% to $17.8 billion in the three months ended March 31.

Package revenue rose 7.1% on a late jump in online orders during the last half of March. Business picked up from large customers, like Amazon.com, FedEx Corp. and United Parcel Service Inc., due to capacity constraints in their networks.

First-class mail revenue rose 1.4% in the March quarter, helped by an increase in mailing tied to the U.S. Census. The Postal Service's loss widened to $4.5 billion in the period, more than double the $2 billion loss a year ago. Excluding uncontrollable expenses, the loss was $792 million, down slightly from a year earlier.

While online shopping is expected to remain high, the Postal Service expects that is likely going to plateau and later decline due to the weakened U.S. economy, where unemployment has increased to nearly 15%.

GWINNETT SCHOOLS

School board meeting will be online this week

Those who would like to comment need to sign up.

By Arlinda Smith Broady
abroady@ajc.com

Gwinnett County Public Schools made history last month when it conducted its first online meeting where attendees could watch the proceedings from home.

District officials will use the Zoom platform again this month, and people who want to address the school board must sign up to speak by noon today, so they can be placed on the agenda for the Thursday meeting.

No one signed up to speak before the deadline for last month's meeting, when the online audience was 163 for the work session and 250 for the business meeting.

Georgia requires that government meetings must be open to the public, but there are no mandates on how or if public comment should be conducted. With meetings being held on public domain platforms like Zoom, Microsoft Teams and Google Meets, issues of security and decorum have come up, said Justin Pauly, a spokesman for the Georgia School Board Association.

"We have all seen and heard stories of unwanted guests hacking in," Pauly said. "This is a way of business that is not the norm

PUBLIC COMMENT PROCEDURE FOR GWINNETT SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

While the board is conducting meetings virtually, there will no longer be the 6:15 p.m. public forum where speakers may sign up just prior to the meeting. Anyone who wishes to address the board must be on the agenda and inform the Superintendent's Office in writing by noon on the Monday immediately prior to the Board meeting.

The form is accessible at: data.gwinnett.k12.ga.us/ReqsforAddrGCPSBOE.nsf/RequestXPage.xsp

Individuals requesting to speak to the Board will be notified by the Coordinator of Board Services that the request has been received.

holding virtual meetings for social distancing.

"There is not a mechanism for public comments during these (virtual) meetings," Fulton County Public Schools Board President Julia Bernath said. "But that being said, the board does receive constant feedback from our community with emails, texts, social media, and phone calls."

Similarly, Henry County advises people to send comments via email.

Hall County appears to have a plan that works – an email address dedicated to public comments. The board begins accepting comments a half-hour before the start of its meetings, and continues accepting them until the public comment portion of the meeting begins.

"We did this successfully at our March Board of Education business meeting and feel comfortable we can continue that trend moving forward," spokesman Stan Lewis said.

Parent Tracy Brown said she reached out to Gwinnett school officials a few weeks ago to make sure she would be allowed to comment at this month's meeting. Brown said she received an email saying she would be alerted about the new procedure, but hasn't heard anything more from the district.

"I wonder if they really don't want to hear from the public, she said.

KINNE

and literature, Dr. Kinne was a resplendent fixture at numerous special events and concerts at the university into her second century, up until the coronavirus pandemic suspended the routines of normal campus life.

She described some of her central values as vision, persistence and what Cost called an “impenetrable and tenacious” optimism, fused with a strong sense of duty to use one’s talents for good.

“Each of us can do something that nobody else can do. I think that it’s a gift. It’s a gift you’ve received. So, how much can you give back?” Dr. Kinne said in a 2015 Times-Union profile.

“What I’d really have to say is just how kind she was to people, over and over and over,” said John Delaney, former mayor of Jacksonville and former president of the University of North Florida. “It could be a waiter in a restaurant, it could be a 17- or 18-year-old student at JU. She just was overwhelmingly kind.”

Born on May 23, 1917, six days before future president John F. Kennedy, Dr. Kinne was raised in Story City, Iowa, and retained close ties with the town for more than a century. As recently as September, she donated $40,000 for the repair of the town’s famed Swinging Bridge, a 1936 Works Progress Administration project that sustained damage last year from flood-driven ice.

In a small Iowa town that remains small — Story City’s population was listed at 3,431 as of the 2010 census — her father, Charles, published the town’s newspaper, the Story City Herald. Her mother, Bertha, who also lived to see her own 100th birthday, helped found the town’s library, which still bears her name today.

From a background steeped in the written word, she became a trailblazer in education: becoming the first American woman to receive a doctorate from the University of Frankfurt in Germany, and still later the first female president of a college in Florida, holding the role for 10 years at JU from 1979 to 1989.

At the age of 16, she entered Iowa State Teachers College in Cedar Falls, Iowa, an institution now known as the University of Northern Iowa, and subsequently transferred to Drake University in nearby Des Moines.

During World War II, she served as a United States Army Hostess at Camp Crowder in Missouri, ultimately becoming the head hostess in a program that served 70,000 troops.

Following the war’s end, she went to China, where her first husband, Col. Harry L. Kinne, was serving under Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Following the chaos of the Communists’ accession to power in China, she was evacuated to Japan, where she helped launch a volunteer teaching program as Americans assisted in the redevelopment and recovery of the nation after the war.

She also spent four years in divided Germany, where she overcame lingering postwar hostility toward Americans to attain her doctorate and acquired a Steinway piano that ultimately became a treasured object in her Atlantic Beach home.

In 1958, with her husband posted to St. Augustine as a liaison between the U.S. Army and the Florida National Guard, Dr. Kinne initially joined Jacksonville University as a humanities professor in an arrangement she initially expected to last for only a short time. But her life soon took root on the First Coast, forging strong bonds to the college in a blossoming academic career that in time spanned from the rising tensions of the early Cold War to the year of the coronavirus.

In 1960, she founded JU’s College of Fine Arts. In 1969, she rose to dean of the program, the first female dean of an American fine arts program, before taking over as the school’s president for a decade in 1979.

Dr. Kinne’s tenure as president included the founding of the Davis College of Business and the Keigwin School of Nursing at JU.

In 1989, she moved to the new role of JU’s chancellor, retiring from the role in 1994 but retaining the title of chancellor emerita.

“It’s hard to find the words to truly capture the tremendous influence that Fran had on thousands of lives over the years,” said Nina Waters, president of the Community Foundation for Northeast Florida. “Not just as students at the university but for a lifetime.”

Dr. Kinne handed Waters her diploma when she graduated in 1980 from JU.

Waters said Dr. Kinne “continued to follow us through our personal lives and professional careers, writing personal notes and letting us know that she was proud of us.”

She recalled how Dr. Kinne continued to write to her over the years — always handwritten notes — every time Waters was in the newspaper for her work.

“She continued to motivate, coach, mentor and teach,” Waters said. “Most of all, I will remember how incredibly important it was for me to make her proud. She loved everything that is Jacksonville University and we all loved her right back.”

Dr. Kinne was also active in Jacksonville’s civic life and became the first female member of the Jacksonville Rotary and River Club. Her awards were numerous, from the inaugural Governor’s Award for the Arts in 1973, to the first EVE Awards EVE of the Decade in 1979, to election to the Florida Women’s Hall of Fame in 1986, to a lifetime achievement award from the Florida Federation of Business and Professional Women’s Clubs in 1996.

“For many of us here she was a wonderfully kind – and wise – friend who truly inspired us,” Mayo Clinic chief executive officer Kent Thielen said. “With her persistence and always with a smile she had a unique ability to bring people together. There are some people in this world that truly enrich the lives of those lucky enough to have known them. Fran was one of those people. We are grateful for Fran’s friendship, and we join the community in mourning her passing.”

Longtime friend Martha Barrett had known Dr. Kinne since 1979, when

Barrett was an aide to then-Mayor Jake Godbold.

“What a great lady,” said Barrett, senior vice president at Bank of America and a former Duval County School Board member. “Dr. Kinne was a mentor to all of us, especially us women, back in the ‘70s when there weren’t many women presidents of colleges. She paved the way for all of us.”

“She was such a wonderful person. And she knew everybody. When she would see you, she wouldn’t just say hello, she would call you by name, recall probably the last time she saw you. She was amazing at that.”

Dr. Kinne brought to JU an array of eminent personalities across a wide range of fields — from Jack Benny to Arthur Fiedler, from Linus Pauling to Ross Perot.

In her many roles, she crossed paths with famous figures local and national — her autobiography, Iowa Girl: The President Wears a Skirt, was published in 2000 with forewords from Bob Hope, Charlton Heston and Winston Churchill, grandson of the wartime British prime minister.

She was preceded in death by her first husband, Col. Harry L. Kinne, who died in 1981, and her second husband, Col. M. Worthington Bordley Jr., who died in 1996.

Funeral services are expected to be in Dr. Kinne’s hometown of Story City, Iowa. Cost said Jacksonville University will have a celebration to honor her life at some point this year.

The Times-Union’s Gene Frenette contributed to this story.

Due to risks associated with the COVID-19 pandemic, schools are closed and life for students has changed significantly. Of all students impacted, high school seniors may be the most affected. They have missed proms, graduations, state playoffs, big goodbyes and celebrations. While we can’t replace these missed milestones, our high school sports awards team didn’t want this moment to pass without recognition and a pause of celebration for these seniors.

The USA Today Network will pay tribute to senior high school athletes who did not get to participate in spring sports with a special segment in the High School Sports Awards Shows, premiering across the country on Thursday, June 18.

Join the movement, share the stories and submit yourself or the high school senior who should be included in this special tribute by May 14. And be sure to tune in to the awards shows at 6 p.m. on Thursday, June 18.

Don’t stop learning.
Don’t stop training.

Coronavirus death toll in state’s nursing homes hits 107

BY JOHN MONK
jmonk@thestate.com

COLUMBIA, SC

The death toll in South Carolina nursing homes and other care facilities has grown to 107, up from 84 deaths earlier in the week, the S.C. Department of Health and Environmental Control reported Friday.

The deaths include both residents and staff, said Dr. Linda Bell, S.C. state epidemiologist, who spoke at a press conference with Gov. Henry McMaster.

Also, DHEC reported, the number of residents and staff testing positive in the state’s 194 nursing homes has grown to 1,072 since earlier in the week, when the state health agency reported 851 cases.

Nearly all the care facility deaths concerned residents. Two staff members have died, and 105 facility residents, DHEC reported. Friday was the first day that DHEC reported a breakdown between staff and residents.

Positive COVID-19 cases among residents hit 743, compared with 329 positive cases for staff, DHEC said.

In all as of Friday, 320 South Carolinians have died from COVID-19, and 7,367 have been infected by the disease, which causes in some patients severe respiratory failure while attacking other parts of the body.

On Monday, DHEC will start testing the 40,000 residents and staff in the state’s 194 nursing homes, Bell said.

To begin with, that testing will target 74 of those 194 facilities, she added.

Coronavirus deaths in nursing homes and care facilities have attracted national and statewide attention because the numbers of such deaths linked to those facilities are unduly high.

Care facilities are populated by those who are especially vulnerable to the disease — those over 60, who generally have weakened immune systems and may be in frail health, and those with underlying health conditions such as obesity, diabetes and high blood pressure. Moreover, many also live in close quarters.

COVID-19 is highly contagious, transmitted by the breath or touch, and can attack the lungs, heart, liver, kidneys and other organs. It is believed to be particularly dangerous because those who are infected can spread the disease before they begin to show any symptoms, such as headaches or shortness of breath.

More than 76,000 Americans have died of the disease in the last two months, and more than 1 million have been infected, according to Johns Hopkins University.

The highest number of SC care facility deaths were at Heartland Health and Rehabilitation Center in Hanahan, where 13 residents died, DHEC reported. In all, Heartland had 90 people test positive — 58 residents and 32 staff.

Other nursing homes with high death numbers:

- Greer Rehabilitation and Health Center in Greer also had nine deaths out of that facility’s 82 total cases.

- Greenville Post Acute in Greenville had 48 cases and nine deaths.

- Midlands Health and Rehabilitation Center in Columbia had eight resident deaths and one staff death and a total of 89 COVID-19 cases.

Lexington Medical Center Extended Care has had four resident deaths, out of its 28 cases, according to DHEC.

On March 13, Gov. Henry McMaster stopped visitation to long-term care facilities to help protect the vulnerable population who tend to live in these types of facilities.

“DHEC prioritizes the identification of COVID-19 infections in congregate settings like nursing homes, assisted living facilities and extended care facilities because the spread of respiratory illnesses like COVID-19 is common in these types of facilities, and the residents who live there are at high risk for developing complications or death from COVID-19 infection,” the agency said.

Here are some of the 83 state care facilities DHEC has reported, along with their COVID-19 cases and deaths:

- Carlyle Senior Care of Florence: 83 cases, four resident deaths.

- Carlyle Senior Care of Kingstree: 56 cases, five deaths.

- Lake Marion Nursing Facility in Summerton: 32 cases, seven resident deaths and one staff death.

- Pruitt Health in Blythwood: 54 cases, five resident deaths.

- Windsor Manor Nursing Home in Manning: 54 cases, seven resident deaths.

This was the second local event held over the weekend to bring attention Arbery’s death. On Friday, people around Midlands and the country jogged for 2.23 miles to represent the day Arbery was killed — part of a larger, #IRunWithAhmaud day of action around the country.

“It is time for it to stop,” said Columbia Branch NAACP president Ovetta Glover. “We talk about it but we don’t do anything about it. This is a step in doing something about it. Bringing awareness is the first step. It is just to open up the ears of people to hear about what is being said in honor of all of those who have fallen.”

State lawmakers have also been vocal in speaking out against Arbery’s death. U.S. Sen. Tim Scott of South Carolina, the

The vigil Sunday also honored Joshua Ruffin, a black teenager who the Columbia Police Department said was shot in north Columbia in April by a white department officer. The officer stopped Ruffin as the teen was walking along a road where a series of car break-ins were reported, the department said.

Ruffin is alleged to have ran away and pulled a gun as the officer chased him, according to the department.

eling off — but they have stressed that the raw total of cases will likely increase as testing is expanded. DHEC is planning to nearly double the amount of testing by the end of May with a goal of testing 2% of South Carolina’s population each month. So far, about 1.3% of the state’s residents have been tested.

DHEC announced Sunday that mobile testing clinics will be held in Charleston County this week. In addition, testing is currently scheduled this week for Clarendon, Florence, Lee and Saluda counties. Mobile testing clinics were previously held in Darlington, Richland and Greenville counties.

More mobile testing sites have currently been scheduled through May 22 and additional sites will continue to be added.

Beginning Monday, DHEC will test all residents and staff at nursing homes, where more than 100 people have died and more than 1,000 have tested positive.

At the same time, Gov. Henry McMaster has said he is confident that the state is ready to reopen and has taken increasing steps to restart the economy. On Monday, restaurants can open for limited dine-in service so long as they operate at 50% occupancy and tables are positioned six to eight feet apart.

McMaster is also expected to announce Monday when salons, gyms and other “close physical contact” businesses in South Carolina will be able to reopen.

Still, DHEC officials and McMaster have recommended residents continue to practice social distancing as businesses reopen, with a target date of June 16 for relaxing those recommendations. McMaster has also said law enforcement officials will still be able to intervene if they see groups of three or more people gathering in public.

As of Sunday afternoon, 4,079,388 people worldwide have been diagnosed with coronavirus and 283,313 people have died, according to Johns Hopkins University. The United States leads the world with 1,321,223 people who have been diagnosed with the novel virus. In the U.S., 79,058 deaths have been reported, including 26,535 in New York City.

agency managers have refused to negotiate with the Union over changes in working conditions,” Grant continued. “Employees have been charged with AWOL when they have symptoms of the virus while they wait for results of testing.”

The union held a protest Saturday outside the Columbia VA, calling on officials to address these concerns. Photos of the event showed that roughly 20 people were in attendance.

The concerns raised by the Columbia union are similar to those that VA employees have raised throughout the country, according to an article from the Washington Post.

Internal emails reviewed by NPR also show the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs has been telling employees to use the same mask for a week in what appears to be a widespread policy, despite the fact that re-using a surgical mask can diminish its effectiveness.

As of late April, more than 6,300 veterans in VA hospitals have tested positive for COVID-19, Military Times has reported.

The State was unable to reach spokespeople with the Columbia VA, or at national VA headquarters, for comment.

Bear print makes impression at Outer Banks

National Park Service rangers are telling beachgoers at Cape Lookout to be on the lookout for a black bear.

In a Facebook post, Cape Lookout National Seashore said Saturday that a park biologist found a bear’s paw print in the sand on South Core Banks, part of the chain of Outer Banks barrier islands.

The park says it’s rare for bears to make their way onto the barrier islands, but they’re excellent swimmers and can generally make their way across inlets to hop from island to island.

Park officials don’t believe the bear is a threat to humans.

Additional information pertaining to the security incident can be found at <https://krystal.com/security/>. All individuals holding a claim or potential claim arising from the security incident MUST FILE A PROOF OF CLAIM on or before the Claims Bar Date.

ANY PERSON OR ENTITY WHO FAILS TO FILE A PROOF OF CLAIM WITH THE COURT, IN EACH CASE ON OR BEFORE THE BAR DATE, SHALL NOT BE TREATED AS A CREDITOR WITH RESPECT TO SUCH CLAIM FOR THE PURPOSES OF VOTING AND DISTRIBUTION ON ANY CHAPTER 11 PLAN AND ANY PERSON WHO FAILS TO FILE A PROOF OF CLAIM WILL HAVE THEIR CLAIM BARRED FOR ALL PURPOSES IN THE CASES.

How to File a Proof of Claim. Each Proof of Claim must be filed, including supporting documentation, by (i) electronically using the interface available on the Notice and Claims Agent's website at <http://www.kcclic.net/Krystal> (click "Submit Electronic Proof of Claim (ePOC)"); or (ii) first-class U.S. Mail, overnight mail, or other hand-delivery system, which Proof of Claim must include an original signature, so as to be received by KCC (the "Claims and Noticing Agent") on or before the Claims Bar Date at the following address: The Krystal Company Claims Processing Center, c/o KCC, 222 N. Pacific Coast Hwy, Suite 300, El Segundo, CA 90245, T: (888) 249-2792.

Contents of Proofs of Claim. Each proof of claim must (i) be legible and written in English; (ii) include a claim amount denominated in United States dollars (using the Petition Date rate of conversion, if applicable); (iii) conform substantially with the Proof of Claim Form; (iv) be signed by the claimant or by an authorized agent or legal representative of the claimant; and (v) include as attachments any and all supporting documentation on which the claim is based. Please note that each proof of claim must state a claim against only one Debtor and clearly indicate the specific Debtor against which the claim is asserted. To the extent more than one Debtor is listed on the proof of claim, a proof of claim is treated as if filed only against the first-listed Debtor, or if a proof of claim is otherwise filed without identifying a specific Debtor, the proof of claim may be deemed as filed only against The Krystal Company.

The Sale Objection Deadline and Sale Hearing. On March 4, 2020, the Court entered an order (Docket No. 227), which, among other things, authorized the Debtors to solicit bids and approved bidding procedures to be employed by the Debtors in connection with the sale of all or substantially all of the Debtors' assets (the "Sale"). The deadline to object to approval of the Sale is May 12, 2020 at 5:00 p.m., prevailing Eastern Time (the "Sale Objection Deadline"). Any objection must: (i) be in writing; (ii) comply with the applicable provisions of the Bankruptcy Rules, the Complex Case Procedures, the Bankruptcy Local Rules for the Northern District of Georgia, and any order governing the administration of these chapter 11 cases; (iii) state with specificity the nature of the objection; and (iv) be filed with the Bankruptcy Court by the no later than the Sale Objection Deadline. The hearing to consider approval of the Sale will take place on May 13, 2020 at 5:00 p.m., prevailing Eastern Time.

Additional Information. If you have any questions regarding the claims process and/or you wish to obtain a copy of the Bar Date Notice, a Proof of Claim Form or related documents you may do so by: (i) calling the Debtors' restructuring hotline at (888) 249-2792 (U.S./Canada) or (310) 751-2607 (International); (ii) visiting the Debtors' restructuring website at: <https://www.kcclic.net/krystal/>; and/or (iii) The Krystal Company Claims Processing Center, c/o KCC, 222 N. Pacific Coast Hwy, Suite 300, El Segundo, CA 90245. Please note that the Claims and Noticing Agent cannot offer legal advice or advise whether you should file a proof of claim.

¹ The Debtors in these chapter 11 cases, along with the last four digits of each Debtor's federal tax identification number, include: The Krystal Company (4140); Krystal Holdings, Inc. (5381); and K-Square Acquisition Co., LLC (8916). The location of the Debtors' corporate headquarters and service address is: 1455 Lincoln Parkway, Suite 600, Dunwoody, Georgia 30346.
